

Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue

Disclaimer and Release of Liability

Disclaimer:

Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue and Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue volunteers and/or agents do not have any in-depth knowledge of a rescue dog's temperament due to the limited time we have to evaluate each animal. Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue will not knowingly foster or adopt out any dog that we deem to be dangerous.

Rescued animals are often stressed and fearful; they may be recovering from abuse, injury, or medical problems. Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue urges you to know that all animals can be unpredictable and capable of causing harm.

Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue requires that all association and/or contact with Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue rescue dogs be conducted with caution and a full awareness of the risks involved.

Release of Liability:

I understand and agree that as am adopter or as a volunteer, foster, or handler with Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue, I will have direct contact with rescued dogs and will exercise caution in my association with and/or handling of the dogs.

I further understand and agree that the behavior of rescued animals is sometimes unpredictable and that these animals are capable of causing damage or harm. Knowing the risks of handling said animals, I agree to assume those risks and to release, indemnify, and hold harmless Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue and/or any of its Officers, Directors, Employees, Volunteers, Agents, or Contractors, for any and all personal injury and/or property damage resulting from said volunteer, foster, or handling work that I perform.

I have no knowledge of any medical or other condition that would prohibit or prevent me from adopting a rescue dog or providing volunteer services, foster care, dog handling, or other duties for Sierra Nevada German Shepherd Rescue.
